WILL DISCUSS GLIDDEN TOUR

Meeting of Autoists and Citizens at Chamber of Commerce Rooms
Tonight.

This evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms will be held a meeting of all automobilists and other interested in the Glidden Trophy tour, which will come through Greensboro in October. If the proper spirit is shown in the matter it is probable that the tourists will spend some time in Greensboro, either at the noon control or the night control, but more probably the former. There will be a large number of entries in the tour and possibly a couple of hundred people will be in the party. Regarding the meeting tonight Secretary McLean of the Chamber of Commerce has issued the following notice: Realizing the importance of the Glidden tour, which will pass through Greensboro, a meeting of all automobilists and citizens interested is called to meet in the chamber of Commerce rooms tonight at 8 o'clock to consider the proper recognition of this tour and to discuss and take steps looking to the organization of an automobile club.

MONEY FOR GRAVE STOLEN

Constable Accused of Taking Cash and Two Rings.

Baltimore, Aug. 31.—Accused of the larceny of $195 and two gold rings from Miss Lizzie and Mary Finn, 1618 West Baltimore street, while serving a writ of replevin for a sewing machine last Saturday, Louis A. Lingerman, a constable, appeared before Justice Beach, at the southwestern Police Station, this morning.

A warrant was sworn out by Miss Lizzie Finn yesterday morning, at which time she testified that the larceny and the removal of the machine had both taken place while she and her sister were away from home Saturday afternoon. The two young women told Justice Beach that they had been saving the money with which to buy a grave for their mother, whose body is now in a vault, and that the transaction was to have taken place yesterday. They had defaulted in several payments on their sewing machine, but had no idea that it was to be taken from them. When they left home Saturday the money was left in a desk in the same room with the machine, and when they returned both machine and money were missing. Lingerman admitted that he went into the house to serve the writ, which he produced at the hearing, but denied that he had taken anything else than the machine. The case was continued until tomorrow morning.

GROCERS SUBMIT.

Government Alleges It Is a Trust and Court Will Soon Issue a Decree Effecting Its Dissolution.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Lawyers representing the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association, which the government is prosecuting as a trust under the Sherman law, have practically agreed to accede to the demands of the Department of Justice. A formal decree which will effect the legal dissolution of the combination is being prepared. In it the grocers submit to practically all the demands made by the government in its suit. Another alleged combination, the so-called electrical trust, is also under dissolution by the same process. A formal decree in that case probably will be ready in a few weeks.

CONTRACT FOR FURNISHING MUNICIPAL BUILDING AWARDED.

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—The contract for furnishing Raleigh's new $100,000 municipal building just completed was awarded today to the Parker-Gardner Co., Charlotte, by a special committee from the board of aldermen subject to approval by the full board, which is certain. There were twelve bidders in and out of the State and the contract is for all the wood furnishings which are to be of fine quality quarter-sawn oak, much of it hand-carved. The contractors say there is not as handsome an equipment in any similar building in the two Carolinas. Every piece is to be especially designed and the equipment is to be in place by January 1.

FEARED

That Another Industrial Outbreak May Occur
in England at Any Time.

London, Aug. 31.—Great Britain is now on the verge of another great industrial outbreak. Employees of the Great Eastern Railroads are charging that their employers are not keeping faith and living up to their agreement. The Royal commission is busy getting the facts which led to the great strike which was settled a week ago.

WORK TO BEGIN ON MASONIC AND EASTERN STAR HOME

Yesterday the building committee of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home held a meeting in the city, the local committee meeting with the building committee and discussing matters pertaining to the erection of the building. The committee went over the site, just west of Lindley Park, and carefully took in the situation. The local committee from the three Masonic lodges in the city and at Revolution reported that the subscriptions were being paid fairly well and it is believed that the funds will be sufficient to keep the work going. After thoroughly discussing the situation the building committee instructed the contractors to proceed at once with the construction of the building, which is to cost $20,000. While the committee believes that the work will not be delayed they state that any persons meeting their subscription without being called upon will confer a favor as it takes considerable time to call upon each person who subscribed to the fund in order to secure the site for Greensboro.

TWO MORE CONGRESSMEN

Reapportionment May Require Legislative Special Session.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 31.—The question of calling an extra session of the Legislature to pass a Congressional Reapportionment bill is up to Governor Wilson and he is in something of a quandary. The Governor was not at the State House yesterday, having continued his inspection of the State institutions, but this matter was discussed in short conferences between State Chairman Grosscup, Governor's Secretary Tumulty, State Committee Chairman Crater, of Monmouth county, and Colonel Ralph W. E. Donges, of Camden. Secretary Tumulty said the Democratic members of Congress from this State had written the Governor about the matter, but no definite conclusion had been reached. Under the reapportionment the State will have 12 members of Congress, two more than at present, but the two new members are likely to go to North Jersey under the redistricting plan, since that section shows the largest gains of population. That would leave the First, Second, Third and Fourth districts intact. As the present Senate is Republican and the House Democratic, there would probably be no chance of a gerrymander such as might be attempted in case the Republicans gain control of both branches the coming year, which is not regarded as probable, though. If no reapportionment is made the additional Congressmen will have to be chosen from the State at large. Only three of the present 10 Congressmen are Republicans.

State Chairman Grosscup stated that committee headquarters are likely to be opened in this city for the fall campaign. The disposition of the Newark headquarters, which have been kept permanently, will be decided by the committee at its next meeting. Word is coming from all parts of the State in strong commendation of the action of the committee in ousting James R. Nugent as chairman, the generally expressed opinion being that it was the only logical thing the committee could do under the circumstances and that it means a great forward stride for the party in the confidence of the people.

Decisive Point Near In the Negotiations Between France and Germany Over Morocco.

France and Germany are carrying on war preparations because of the Moroccan affair, and each appears willing that the other should know it. Whether there is to be war depends upon the terms which France puts forward. Her ultimatum is ready and is understood to be an offer of certain parts of the French Congo to Germany if the latter will absolutely recognize France's rights in Morocco.

FLEMING CASE COMES UP AGAIN FRIDAY MORNING

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—Friday morning Judge R. B. Peebles, of the Superior Court, will be in Raleigh to give a special hearing in the noted Fleming case in which the possession of the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Fleming and the question of alimony and the sale of the Fleming residence on Blount street will be especially considered, pending proceedings for divorce that Mrs. Fleming has started on the ground of habitual drunkenness, cruelty and other causes on the part of her husband. Judge Peebles is to be asked by Mrs. Fleming's counsel to modify the recent order of Chief Justice Walter Clark in leaving the two children to the care of Dr. Arthur Fleming of Louisville because he was able and willing to care for them and without prejudice to the case of Mrs. Fleming in seeking divorce and final custody of the children. Judge Clark intimated information that Mrs. Fleming was not able to provide for the children. She now sets out that she is able and that alimony from her husband's income that is ample will still further enable her to provide for the children and that she will give ample bond both for the care of the children and for their retention within the jurisdiction of the court pending the settlement of their final disposition. It is not known whether Judge Peebles will go into all the evidence that Chief Justice Clark heard or not.

DANIEL BOONE CELEBRATION IN YADKIN COUNTY

But It Will Not Be Held Before Next Year—Roosevelt Invited.
Lexington, Aug. 31.—It is planned to have a tremendous celebration at the Daniel Boone cabin, cave and grounds on the banks of the Yadkin river in Davidson county next year. It is said that ex-President Roosevelt will be invited and that there is every assurance that the mighty hunter will be present, as he is a great admirer of the famous Boone. This spot is a mecca for sight-seers and picnic gatherings.

CHEMIST ALLEN ATTENDS MEETING OF FOOD OFFICIALS

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—State Food Chemist W. M. Allen, of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, has returned from Duluth, Mich., where he attended the National Association of Food Officials in session there the past week, he being the secretary of the association. He says the Wiley-Wilson contest that has been stirring the country for some time was clearly in evidence in the association with the two factions very closely divided—so closely, in fact, that resolutions for neither Wiley nor Wilson could be gotten through the association although the friends of both introduced resolutions. However, when it came to the election of officers the Wiley wing of the association elected its candidates, headed by L. P. Brown, of Tennessee, as president. This is Mr. Allen's third term as secretary. The general view of the Wiley-Wilson contest taken by the association of food officials is that Wilson is contending for the protection of a few favored manufacturers of food products and Wiley is standing for the strict enforcement of the pure food laws and the protection of the consumers.

WAR CLOUD IS HANGING OVER EUROPE

Paris, Aug. 31.—As a result of the Moroccan situation a war cloud hangs over Europe. The feeling between France, Belgium and Germany is said to have reached an acute stage. Preparations for war are being made in each of the three countries.

Building Inspector Milton this morning granted to John Donnell for two $800 houses on Julian street.

MATTAMUSKEET DRAINAGE CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—A case of special interest argued on appeal in the Supreme court today in connection with the hearing of appeals from the First district was Carter and others vs. Drainage Commissioners, from Hyde county, this being the case that has tied up the Mattamuskeet drainage enterprise that is intended to make available some of the finest agricultural lands in the country that are now the Mattamuskeet Lake-bed and adjacent soggy lands. The original proceeding for the formation of the drainage district involved a $400,000 bond issue, this being while the State Board of Education was a party as part owner of the lake-bed. Later the state sold out its interest to the Southern Land Reclamation Company and during the last legislature a special act was passed allowing a $500,000 bond issue instead of $400,000, this adding an additional $25,000 burden to the private land owners represented by H. C. Carter, T. J. Jennette, J. C. Simmons and others, plaintiffs in this litigation. They ask for a restraining order against issuing the additional $100,000 bonds. In the trial below before Judge O. H. Allen the motion for restraining order was denied and the appeal is by the plaintiffs who are represented by Ward & Grimes, H. C. Carter, Jr., and J. C. C. Ehringhaus as counsel. The drainage commissioners are represented by Mann & Jones. The commissioners are J. S. Mann, T. B. Gibbs and Jno. P. Kerr. The drainage work is at a standstill now awaiting the termination of the suit.

Tar Heel Resigns From Navy to Join Army.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The resignation of Midshipman A. L. Pendleton, Jr., of North Carolina, was accepted by Acting Secretary of the Navy Winthrop today, to take effect August 31. Midshipman Pendleton will go into the army.

Paris, Aug. 31.—The food and bread riots are assuming alarming proportions. In the departments of Ord and Aisne there are thousands on the verge of starvation.

TEST SUIT OF MILLERS COMES UP AT FAYETTEVILLE

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—Secretary Elias Carr, of the State Department of Agriculture, has been summoned to go at once to Fayetteville to produce in Cumberland court there a part of agriculture records involved in the suit that the North Carolina Miller's Association have brought through the McNeill Manufacturing Company to test the constitutionality of the application of the 20 cents per ton inspection tax that the State Department exacts from the North Carolina millers as well as the millers of other states selling their products in North Carolina.

PRISONER GAVE WIFE FOOD.

Slipped Bundle Through Bars Daily to Keep Her From Starving.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Aug. 31.—Louis A. Weiss, 23 years old, prisoner in the county jail, on a charge of petit larceny, was caught passing a bundle containing food to his wife. Weiss has been in jail several weeks, and his wife has been a daily visitor. The jailer noticed they seemed very much devoted to each other, and began to take note of the visits, and caught Weiss passing her the bundle. He took it from her, and on examination found it contained bread and meat, the food allowed Weiss by the county. When Weiss was asked about it, he acknowledged with some reluctance that he had been giving his allowance of solid foods to his wife every day, just to keep her from starving until he could get out. Weiss' offense was the alleged theft of a pair of loaded dice from a saloon keeper. It was his intention to use the dice to clean up a crap game. He was being held as a witness against the saloon keeper from whom he is alleged to have taken the dice. When Prosecutor Henry Russe, Jr., heard of the jail incident he ordered Weiss released and procured work for him.

COUNTERFEITER CAUGHT.

Makers of a Fine Brand of Phony Money Run in After Hunt Lasting 5 Years.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The story of a five years' hunt for a counterfeiter of silver dollars reached its culmination in Memphis yesterday with the arrest of John G. Payne and his wife, negroes. For more than five years the dollars, which Payne is charged with making, have been passing through banks in Memphis. They were accounted among the most dangerous counterfeit money with which the government has had to deal.

Three months ago an assistant chief, W. H. Moran, the government's crack man on difficult cases, sent "Bill" Nye, also one of the flower of the service, to Memphis. A few weeks later at a negro emancipation celebration at Paducah, Nye picked up the first information which led to the identification of Payne. He followed Payne back to Memphis.

A few days ago his hunt came to an end eight miles from the heart of the city in front of an isolated farm house, surrounded by a high board fence.

Yesterday Nye reported the arrest of Payne and his wife as well as his capture of several of the counterfeit coins, the outfit for making them and the genuine dollars from which the moulds were made.

On the counterfeits have been peculiar little dents and scratches. Nye reported that he found them in the genuine coins he took in the raid. Moran says that proves that the moulds which the counterfeiter used were so perfect that they even reproduced the scratches and nicks of the genuine coins.

HARRIMAN ROAD GETTING READY

Busy Mobilizing Hands
in Case Present Employees Decide to Strike.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—The Harriman and other railroads connected with the big system of roads are preparing for the great strike that is likely to occur at any time. Employment agencies are busy mobilizing men for the roads. In case a strike occurs these men will be rushed to the scene and the railroads will put up a vigorous fight to win.

LABOR MEN SCORE HITCHCOCK.

Barring of McNamara Stamps From Letters Causes Explosion.

Los Angeles, Aug. 31.—Word of the decision of Postmaster General Hitchcock barring the McNamara defense fund stamps from the mails came as a severe jolt to the labor leaders here this afternoon. The attorneys for the accused brothers were at a conference when the word reached them of the postal authorities' action. They admitted they had feared such a move for some time.

Said Clarence Darrow: "It is not that we are getting so much money out of the sale of these stamps, but they are keeping the friends of the fight for these men interested and are not doing any harm. It is possible that some members are pasting the stamps on the face of letters and thus violating the law, but even so, the arbitrary method adopted by Mr. Hitchcock is in line with the whole attitude of the officialdom of the nation. I fail to see why Mr. Hitchcock has taken such a step unless he thought it would handicap us in the struggle."

RESENT INTERVENTION.

Pan-German Union Meets and Adopts Resolutions Aimed at Great Britain.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—Members of the Pan-German Union, held a packed mass meeting last night and adopted a resolution demanding either France's complete recognition of the Algerias act or Germany's acquisition of similar rights in West Morocco as France claims in the other district. The resolution strongly condemned intervention in the dispute by a third power.

An inspired article in the Lokal Anzeiger also protests vigorously against what it terms the unjustifiable threatening attitude taken by Great Britain. It declares, moreover, that Germany was never desirous of obtaining a footing in Morocco and hints that the details of an agreement would occupy a long period even should the French proposals about to be presented by M. Cambon be generally acceptable to Germany.

LOVE WINS IN LEAP TO DIE.

Girl's Lake Plunge and Rescue Reconciled Sweethearts.

Pottsville, Pa., Aug. 31.—Desperate because her lover John Philpott put off his intentions to marry her, Crula Boyster, aged 23, tried to commit suicide yesterday by throwing herself from the high breast of the Upper Tumbling Run Lake, a pleasure resort, near here, into 55 feet of water.

The attempt at suicide was made in plain sight of many picnickers in the boat cottages which fringe the lake and pleasure-seekers who were out in boats. The girl was out walking with her lover and suddenly broke away from him and ran toward the lake, declaring she would take her life.

When his sweetheart made her desperate leap, Philpott was close behind. Losing no time, he jumped in to her rescue and supported her, despite her pleading to be left to end her troubles, until Peter Peter Pfeiffer, a fisherman; C. Fred. Cauffman and several others, in boats dragged the couple ashore.

The lovesick girl was seized too quick for her to take in much water, and a half hour later the couple walked from the water's edge, arm in arm, a complete reconciliation having been effected. It is believed that the long delayed wedding will now take place.

When Miss Boyster was taken from the water, she dropped her luxuriant hair as a screen to hide her face, her rash act having filled her with deepest embarrassment.

MORE TARIFF AGITATION.

While deploring agitation of the tariff in all moods and tenes as detrimental to the business interests of the country, the reactionaries in Congress have only protracted the agitation for at least another year. What they betray once more is that they are much more concerned about agitation than they are for relief of the people from iniquitous and oppressive tariff burdens. When Congress shall again meet, in a little more than three months, they will not abate one jot of their obstruction to the measure of the Democratic majority of the House, relying in the end on the veto power. Should the President's Protectionist Tariff Board bring in reports favoring substantial reductions of the Payne-Albright act, that is not going to affect their purpose. So far from it, they may be expected to renew agitation more violently in a fresh campaign of calamity howling on the threshold of the Presidential contest.

Had the President signed the bills to reduce duties on woolen and cotton fabrics and for free foodstuffs the most complicated and most important of the tariff problems would have been solved. Revision of the rest of the schedules would have been comparatively easy, and agitation would have well ceased by this time. But the reactionaries prefer continued agitation of the tariff to the relief of 90,000,000 of American consumers from its extortions. For them there is nothing detrimental in the agitation against reduction, even though accompanied by the wildest panic-mongering predictions of "ruin."

As for the position of parties, they remain in statu quo, so far as the tariff is concerned. Whatever recommendations of the President may make to Congress in the next session, he has lost the confidence of the Democratic majority of the House in his good intentions in behalf of genuine tariff revision; and that is not their fault. They find it impossible to reconcile his vetoes with his reciprocity agreement with Canada, for which he required the aid of no Tariff Board. Whether he has recovered the confidence of the Republican enemies of reciprocity is another question. It is certain, however, that the Democrats of the House will never assent to any abatement of the liberal bills which the President has thought proper to veto at the expense of the people.

A last question is whether the Progressive Republicans of the Senate in the next session will make common cause with the Democrats in lowering the Payne-Albright bill schedule by schedule, and leaving the responsibility for more vetoes with President Taft. What complicates this question now is the maneuvering of the two Republican factions for position in the campaign of 1912. The Progressives are not likely to assent to and tariff revision the President and candidate of the Regular Republicans may recommend. Nor is the President likely to sign any bill that the Progressives may help the Democrats to pass. Reports of the Tariff Board to which the President attaches so much importance, will hardly meet with serious consideration on either side; still less tariff bills based on alleged "differences of cost of production at home and abroad."

Unless conditions should change under the pressure of public opinion so as to create two-third majorities in both the houses of Congress there is little probability of tariff revision next session. The agitation will continue under a new referendum in 1912. But the agitation will do little harm, if any, when not accompanied by insensate howls of calamity such as threaten many thousands of American working men out of employment in 1893 and 1894.—Philadelphia Record.

"Boys of '61" Were Boys Indeed.

The longevity of the pension roll has surprised many people, but now comes D. I. Woods, a clerk in the War Department, with some illuminating statistics. A total of 2,278,588 were enlisted on the Union side in the Civil War, and all but 118,000 were less than 21 years old. The war was won by boys!

To be more specific, 1,000,000 were between 18 and 21; 307,000 were 18; 613,000 were 17; 105,000 from 14 to 15; 300 were 13; 225 were 12; 38 were 11, and there were 25 babies of 10 years.

The war ended 46 years ago. If the average soldier was 20 at enlistment and 25 at the close of the war, he is only 71 years old now and his wife may be much younger.

The pension roll is probably good for many years yet.—Cleveland Press.

GIRLS CANNING TOMATOES.

They Rival the Southern Boys of the Corn Clubs.

Way down South in Dixie the girls tried to beat the boys the boys raising corn, but the work was too hard for them. However, they did pretty well at it, so they decided to get up some tomato clubs.

Each girl receives a small plot of ground about 20 by 200 feet and the men plow it deeply for her, but after that she has to paddle her own canoe. The girls wrote on to the government and got seed, and ever so many of them bought a canning outfit among them. The record-breaker raised and gathered enough big, juicy tomatoes to fill more than 500 cans, and they brought her a good price, because the fruit was the best and was free of benzoate of soda or any other keeping dopes. Of course, the boys had to help a little around canning time, so the girls met at one another's homes and called in the corn raisers to chop wood and keep up the fire and use the soldering irons on the cans. After the cans were passed around and everybody had a slashing good time.—New York Press.

MECHANISM OF THE WATCH.

Materials Used and Operations Comprised in Its Manufacture.

Few pieces of machinery show more marvelous features than that of the watch. As a general proposition it may be stated that a watch is the smallest, most delicate instrument of the same number of parts that has ever been devised. More than 100 different pieces of material enter into the construction and upward of 2,400 separate operations are comprised in its manufacture.

Certain of the facts connected with its performance are almost incredible when considered as a whole. A blacksmith strikes several hundred blows on his anvil in a day and as a matter of course is glad when Sunday comes, but the roller jewel of a watch makes every day—and day after day—432,000 impacts against the fork, or 157,680,000 blows during the course of a year without stopping to rest—or some 3,153,000,000 blows during the space of 20 years, the period for which a watch is usually guaranteed to keep good time.

But the wonder of it does not cease here. It has been calculated that the power that moves the watch is equivalent to only four times the force used in a flea's jump. The watch power is therefore what might be termed the equivalent of a four flea-power. One horsepower would suffice to operate 270,000,000 watches.

Furthermore, the balance wheel of a watch is moved by this four flea-power 1.43 inches with each vibration, of 3,558 1/2 miles continuously in one year.

Not much oil is required to lubricate the little machine on its 3,500 mile run. It takes only one-tenth of a drop of oil to oil the entire machinery for a year's service.—Scientific American.

The Tablet on the Nye House.

Whenever a member of Congress has a story to tell about that famous humorist "Bill" Nye, he hunts up Representative Frank M. Nye, of Minnesota, his brother. Representative Gould of Maine, cornered Nye in the lobby of the Capitol the other day and said that while most of the stories that are told have been jokes which "Bill" Nye turned on the other fellow, yet he remembered an incident where the joke was on the humorist.

"Your brother was living in New York at the time," said Gould, "and a neighbor from Shirley, Maine, where you both were born, dropped in to see him. 'You know the old house is about all that is left of the town,' remarked the visitor.

"Yes, I suppose that's so," said Nye. "They think a great deal of you there. The old house stands on the corner, and they have put a tablet in front of it." "Bill" was all attention. He leaned forward and inquired:

"What was on the tablet?" "Eight miles to Readville," said the visitor.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Difference in Husbands.

"I can twist my husband around my little finger," said the Circassian beauty. "That's all right," replied the fat lady, "but if you had married the ossified man instead of a contortionist you'd find him a harder customer to deal with."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Value of the "Safe Fourth."

The celebration of the Fourth of July in 1903, when fireworks were freely used in nearly every section, resulted in 446 persons being killed by accidents, 426 persons dying as a result of lockjaw and 4,449 receiving injuries serious enough to be reported to the police or hospitals. The celebration of this year, when most cities limited the use of fireworks, shows a record of 57 killed, 10 victims of lockjaw and 1,603 persons injured. Four years ago in Chicago 15 were killed and 150 injured. In New York 22 were killed and 422 injured. This year in Chicago 2 were killed and 53 injured; in New York 3 were killed and 91 injured.

These figures are taken from the bulletin of the Medical Association Journal, and are as nearly official as can well be secured. They show a remarkable decrease in fatalities, largely the direct result of limiting the sale and use of fireworks. Though the exact figures are not yet available, there certainly have been fewer fires on the Fourth, and the saving in property is probably as considerable in proportion as the saving in life.

Could there be a more striking vindication of the "safe and sane Fourth?"—Baltimore Sun.

He Was Willing.

There was recently hauled into an Alabama court a little Irishman to whom the thing was a new experience. He was, however, unabashed, and wore an air of a man determined not to "get the worst of it."

"Prisoner at the bar," called out the clerk, "do you wish to challenge any of the jury?"

Whereupon the Celt looked the men in the box over very carefully and with a skilled eye.

"Well, I tell ye," he finally replied, "O'm not exactly in trainin', but O' think O' could pull off a round or two with that fat old boy in 'th' corner."—Lippincott's.

Telephone Eavesdropper.

In rural New England districts the telephone takes the place of tea in the city, as a place where women gather and retail gossip.

"It's a great blessing," specially if you're on a party line," said our hostess. "And we're all on party lines! Wait!" "She went to the instrument, called a number and remarked, 'That you, Bessie, what's this I hear 'bout you'n Jim breaking it off?'

We watched her smile as she listened to the answer. Then she said "How did I hear it? Why, Mrs. Asa Parker told me." She held the receiver free of her ear and beckoned us close. We heard distinctly an indignant voice exclaim: "Why Sarah Bowers, I never said no such a thing!" "I thought I'd catch her," said Mrs. Bowers, when the telephone conversation was closed. "As I told you, the phone's a great comfort to us all!"—W. P. Eaton, in American Magazine.

Do Whales Like Popcorn?

A 75-mile race upon the high seas with two mammoth whales, each measuring more than 150 feet, furnished keen excitement to the 173 passengers of the steamer Boston, which arrived from Nova Scotia recently. It was not until after the exciting race had lasted for eight hours that the two whales gave up the race. Some popcorn was thrown from the steamer by children and the two whales eagerly made for it. Evidently expecting more, they clung to the ship. They drew up alongside and at times brushed up against it.—Boston Dispatch to New York American.

A Typewriting Impediment.

A young man who recently began a course in a local business college was put to work at a typewriter which had become somewhat disabled through various experiences with beginners.

After an hour's practice with the machine he called one of the instructors. "What's the matter," asked the teacher. "Aren't you getting along all right?" "Yes," replied the student, "but the blame thing stutters!"—Youngstown Telegram.

A Noble Son.

Harold, aged 9, came home one day so bruised and dirty that his mother was thrown into a state of marked perturbation.

"Mercy!" she exclaimed, in horror; "how on earth, my child, did you get your clothes and face into such a state?"

"I was trying to keep a little boy from getting licked," was Harold's virtuous, if hesitating, reply.

"Well, that was fine," said his mollified parent. "I am proud of you, sonny. Who was the little boy?"

"Me."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Student of Humanity.

Mrs. Carter and her cook were discussing the murder which had harrowed the dusky citizens of the countryside.

"Will dey hang him fer killin' of his wife, Miss Cyarter?"

"We can't tell yet, Aunt Jinny. The court will decide. Of course, if they prove he did it on purpose." "Done it a purpose! Law, Miss Cyarter, in course he kilt his wife a purpose! Honey, ain't I done been married? Don't I know men?"—Brooklyn Citizen.

President Taft's False Keynote.

President Taft's "keynote speech" in Massachusetts will hardly be claimed by the unprejudiced to be either strong, ingenious or persuasive. It is more like the utterance of a politician trying to escape responsibility by denouncing the opposition than that of a statesman seeking to help the people solve important problems.

The President gives the Democrats a sort of half-hearted credit for "uniting with the Republicans" to pass the reciprocity bill, "because they believed in its usefulness." This is much like giving the dog credit for being wagged by the tail, when it is remembered that in both the House, where they were in the majority, and in the Senate, where they were in the minority, the Democrats furnished the greater number of votes to pass that measure. The President's acknowledgement of their services is, therefore, weak and paltry. That they supported the measure "because they believed in its usefulness" is a real tribute to their patriotic motives, instead of a modification of the poor meed intended. The President, having acquitted the Democrats of playing politics on reciprocity, then turns about and charges them with a complete change of character. He says:

"I am very sorry to say, however, that, having pursued a purely statesmanlike course with reference to reciprocity, they did 'play politics' of the most irresponsible character in respect to three tariff bills, which, by uniting with certain Republicans in the Senate, they were able to pass and present to the Executive for his signature."

It becomes the President to so sweepingly impeach the good faith of the majority of one house of a co-ordinate branch of the government, and there is nothing in the record to justify him. The Democrats sought to pass measures to reduce the tariff on certain products in the hope that they would reduce the price of those products to the consumers, and when they found they could not get all they wanted they showed a willingness to take all they could get. Had they wished to play politics, they would have refused to agree to any compromise and have gone to the country to ratify their action in trying to bring relief to the people. Then they would have been justly liable to the charge of playing politics, and the President would with justice have pressed the charge home.

The argument that the Democrats should have waited for the report of the Tariff Board is without weight. The President recommended no such course when a Congress controlled by his own party was considering a general tariff bill, nor did he await such information before agreeing to the Canadian reciprocity treaty. The Payne-Albright bill was founded upon information secured from the representatives of specially protected interests; where the President got that used to making the reciprocity treaty has not been made public. The Democrats refused to wait on the Tariff Board because they were convinced its report would be valueless, and that the board was being used to impede, not assist, a proper revision of the tariff; that it was designed to "stall off" any change as long as possible, and when it can be delayed no longer, to influence it along improper lines. Had they waited for it to report, they would have deserved the defeat such non-action would inevitably have brought.

President Taft's speech was a distinct bid for the support of New England, which gets free hides and free cotton for so many of its manufacturing plants, while it enjoys the benefit of protection for all it produces, from blankets to codfish, and it is not surprising that it should be applauded there. But he will face a different sort of audience when he goes into the West on his approaching trip, and it will be interesting to note the reception he gets from the people who look at the tariff from a different angle.

The utterances of Saturday are not of the kind that appeal to the West. They are too narrow and too disingenuous. They nowhere ring with the truth and sincerity. The speech is throughout an attempt to arouse the fighting spirit of the party man that will make him vote the party ticket, rather than a calm discussion intended to carry conviction of the justice of his cause. It strikes the false note of shallow partisan politics, rather than the deep tone of comprehensive, broad-minded statesmanship.—Baltimore Sun.

He Was a Hero Too.

Senator La Follette, at a picnic in Madison, was praising a young Milwaukee couple that had just got married.

"They'll have a rather hard time of it, too," he said, thoughtfully, "with prices up to all the claims made for it. When I was suffering from an attack of kidney complaint, I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and after using them, the pain disappeared. I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills at that time and I still think highly of them. I never lose an opportunity to recommend this remedy."

Good Out of Evil.

In a crowded moving picture theatre in Canonsburg, Pa., a slight defect in the film caused the machine to flash. A boy shouted "Fire!" This scared a giant foreigner, who ran for the door. In a moment the whole audience was wild with terror. Men and women fought to get out, and children were trampled under foot. When the house was cleared 26 persons lay dead, 25 others were seriously injured and nearly half a hundred suffering from bruises or slight wounds. And the cause—only a boy's cry and the fright of one man.

Panic is the one thing most feared wherever crowds gather. They are in far more danger of being trampled to death than of being burned, or drowned, or killed by falling bricks or timbers. This sudden terror cannot be foreseen or provided against. But we can lessen its dangers by providing against plenty of exits and a staff of employees ready to meet an emergency. After the Iroquois disaster in Chicago there was a general inspection of theatres; many were remodeled, and now they are provided with asbestos curtains, fire escapes and plenty of exits. The fire in a Cleveland school house, in which many children lost their lives, brought about a great improvement in school buildings, and the lives of children are better protected. When the General Slocum caught fire insight of New York and scores died before they could reach shore the determination to provide against such loss of life in the future resulted in stringent regulations, and every excursion steamer is now provided with apparatus for fighting fire and a plentiful supply of life-preservers. Thus good has come out of evil. The pity of it is that commonsense and common prudence are not exercised in advance to prevent the evil which arouses us to action.

Such loss of life as occurred at Coatesville would be almost impossible in a building with ample and proper exits.—Baltimore Sun.

THE PROPER COURSE

Information of Priceless Value to Every Greensboro Citizen.

How to act in an emergency is knowledge of inestimable worth, and this is particularly true of the diseases and ills of the human body. If you suffer with backache, urinary disorders, or any form of kidney trouble, the advice contained in the following statement will add a valuable asset to your store of knowledge. What could be more convincing proof of the efficiency of Doan's Kidney Pills than the statements of nearby residents who have been permanently cured?

C. B. Ellis, Front St., Burlington, N. C., says: "I have no hesitation in saying that Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable kidney medicine and one that lives up to all the claims made for it. When I was suffering from an attack of kidney complaint, I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and after using them, the pain disappeared. I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills at that time and I still think highly of them. I never lose an opportunity to recommend this remedy."

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her

Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff. Her life long, accompanied by itching, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide kills the dandruff germ, leaving the hair free to grow as healthy. Nature Intended. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. A Marvel For Sore Feet. Acts Right Off.

Good-bye sore feet, aching feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelling feet, tired feet.

Good-bye corns, callouses and bunions and raw spots.

You've never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

It acts at once and makes the feet feel remarkably fresh and sore-proof. TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

If you don't find all this true after trying a box of TIZ, you can get your money right back.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

WINTER CLOVER CROPS A PROTECTION TO SOIL

(By T. B. PARKER).

The unprecedented drouth which prevails in some sections of the State is an object lesson as to the value of organic matter or humus in the soil, as it is a well known fact that in addition to other desirable qualities decaying organic matter or humus increases the water holding capacity of all soils.

For the protection of the soil and to provide against the disastrous effects of a possible drouth next summer farmers should put in winter-cover crops. The best crops for this purpose are the clovers, vetches, and small grain crops. On land where they clovers and vetches will grow successfully they are better than rye or other small grain crops, but where they will not grow it will be advisable to sow rye.

For best results these crops should be put in as quickly as possible, especially in the western part of the State. Prepare the land by disk and harrowing and sow 15 pounds clean crimson clover seed per acre, and if convenient, sow also 300 pounds acid phosphate per acre, as that will help to insure a stand of clover. Some sow in addition to this one pound of turnip seed per acre, preferably the Cowhorn variety, claiming that the turnip leaves protect the young clover plants in their early stages. It can do no harm to sow the turnip seed as these crops are intended to plow under next spring to improve the soil.

The seed should be covered with a cultivator or with a harrow about one inch deep. In the western part of the State these should be put in at once so as to make sufficient growth to withstand the winter. In the central part of the State they should be put in not later than the last of September, while in the eastern and warmer sections of the State they can be put in as late as the middle of October.

In the Coastal Plain section bur clover is also fine for a winter-cover crop. The seed of this is usually purchased in the rough or bur and should be planted at the rate of from three to four bushels of the burs per acre, and covered about one inch deep. These should go in at once. Acid phosphate can be used with these to advantage.

Hairy vetch also makes a fine winter-cover crop, and will succeed in almost any part of the State on well drained land, especially where patridge or mountain peas grow. If sown alone sow at the rate of 30 pounds of seed per acre, and if with rye or other small grain, one bushel of small grain and 20 pounds of vetch per acre. They should be sown at about the same time as crimson clover and covered from one to two inches deep.

Where none of these crops will grow successfully sow rye at the rate of one and a half bushels per acre. You want a heavy growth to protect the land and to add a great quantity of vegetable matter when turned under next spring.

Turn under two or three weeks before you wish to plant the crop which is to follow. Rye, especially, should not be permitted to get woody before turning under. Better turn it under as soon as the heads begin to appear than to wait until it is grown. If it gets full grown and dry weather follows it would leave the land so open and loose that the crop following it would suffer more than if no rye was put on the land.

All these crops should be disked well and thoroughly cut up before plowing under next spring. Good results may be expected only when they are well mixed with the soil before the crop is planted.

If any one doubts the benefits to be had from these winter cover crops let him prepare one acre of average land and treat it as described above. Next spring plant another acre by the side of it that has had no winter-cover crop and cultivate both alike. One demonstration like this will usually convince a person of the value of winter-cover crops.

Seed for any of the above mentioned crops can be had from almost any reputable seedman, but buy only the best and freest from impurities. The best are none too good.

FISH BLOCK HARBOR MOUTH.

Porgies Crowd Waters Off Portland, Me.; 24,000,000 Caught.

A record catch of 24,000,000 porgies was reported here today, and captains of incoming vessels say that the mouth of the harbor was literally alive with the packed fish, making it practically impossible to force a path through them.

The run began several days ago, and the news was telegraphed to the eastern part of the State. A porgy plant was at once sent here, and since its arrival has been doing a business never before equaled. Not only did the plant engage in catching large numbers of porgies, but many schooners also set out for the grounds and their success was heralded far and near, until it would seem as though every man who owned a craft of any kind would be caught by the sudden flurry and hasten to the harbor's mouth. Many Italian fishermen in Hampton boats went out and succeeded in getting thousands of the squirming fish. Peddlers in bumboats also were fortunate in making catches which netted what to them seemed small fortunes.

The first report of the work being done outside was brought in by Captain Simmons, of the lobster smack Katie C. Lamson, who said that when passing between Half-way Rock and Small Point the waters became alive with fish. He thought they were mackerel at first, and started to dip for them, but as soon as the small nets were placed in the water the fish separated and would not approach them. They were extremely wild. It was then that Captain Simmons noticed a number of big steamers near at hand seining the porgies in immense nets.

"They were the biggest seines I ever saw," said Captain Simmons, and it is reported that they were a mile long. When these seines were pursued the number of fish taken in seemed to be beyond calculation.—Portland (Maine) Dispatch in Philadelphia Record.

Geese Hold Up Street Cars; Owner is Fined.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 31.—For allowing his geese to wander across the tracks of the Trenton Street Railway, just inside of the city limits, and holding up the cars of the company for more than fifteen minutes twice a day, Patrick Salone was threatened with a fine of $46, or $2 for each of the 23 geese he harbored within the limits of the city.

The trolley company has tried in many ways to stop the procession of geese across its tracks, but the old gander of the flock bit and scratched everybody until the employers of the company were afraid of him. Then the lawyers brought out this old city ordinance and the fine was levied.

When the owner of the flock said he would stop this procession, which no one has been able to stop as yet, the court reduced the fine to $5 providing the geese did not again stop the cars.

Court Enjoins Odor of Cooking Onions.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 31.—Judge Lawrence De Graff, who, by issuing an injunction a few weeks ago, effectively ended what threatened to become a serious street car strike, issued an injunction yesterday which is intended to give tenants of an office building relief from the pungent fumes of cooking onions.

Lawyers, who have offices in a downtown building, told the court they did not relish the odors which escaped from the chimney of a restaurant across the alley.

Judge De Graff ordered the restaurant company to raise its chimney high enough to carry the odors above the attorney's offices. He gave the company three days in which to do this or else answer for contempt.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as secretly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Every Dollar of an Ad- Reader's Money is Above Par!

Frequently Its Buying Power Is Actually Doubled!

YOUR DOLLARS vary in value as they vary in purchasing power. The man or woman who studies advertisements is able, frequently, to make one dollar do the usual work of two.

And the experienced reader of advertisements will always make a dollar command a premium—make it buy more than a dollar's worth, as figured on "ruling prices" of things.

How much "above par" are the dollars in your pocket worth? It will depend on how closely you study the buying opportunities outlined in the store ads.

The Sacred Czar.

It is not only the Russian Court Journal which has a circuitous way of referring to the czar. Even in conversation Russians never call a czar a czar. It is not incorrect to use the terms czar, czaritsa and czarévitch, but in practice they are heard only in the Liturgy of the Orthodox church and sometimes from the lips of people of revolutionary views. In ordinary conversation the czar is called Gosudar, a word which means Lord or Sir. In the Court Circular it is the practice to term the Sovereign Gosudar Imperator, the Lord Emperor. Nobody ever speaks of the czaritsa; she is always Gosudarinya, the Lady, or Gosudarinya Imperatritsa, the Lady Empress.

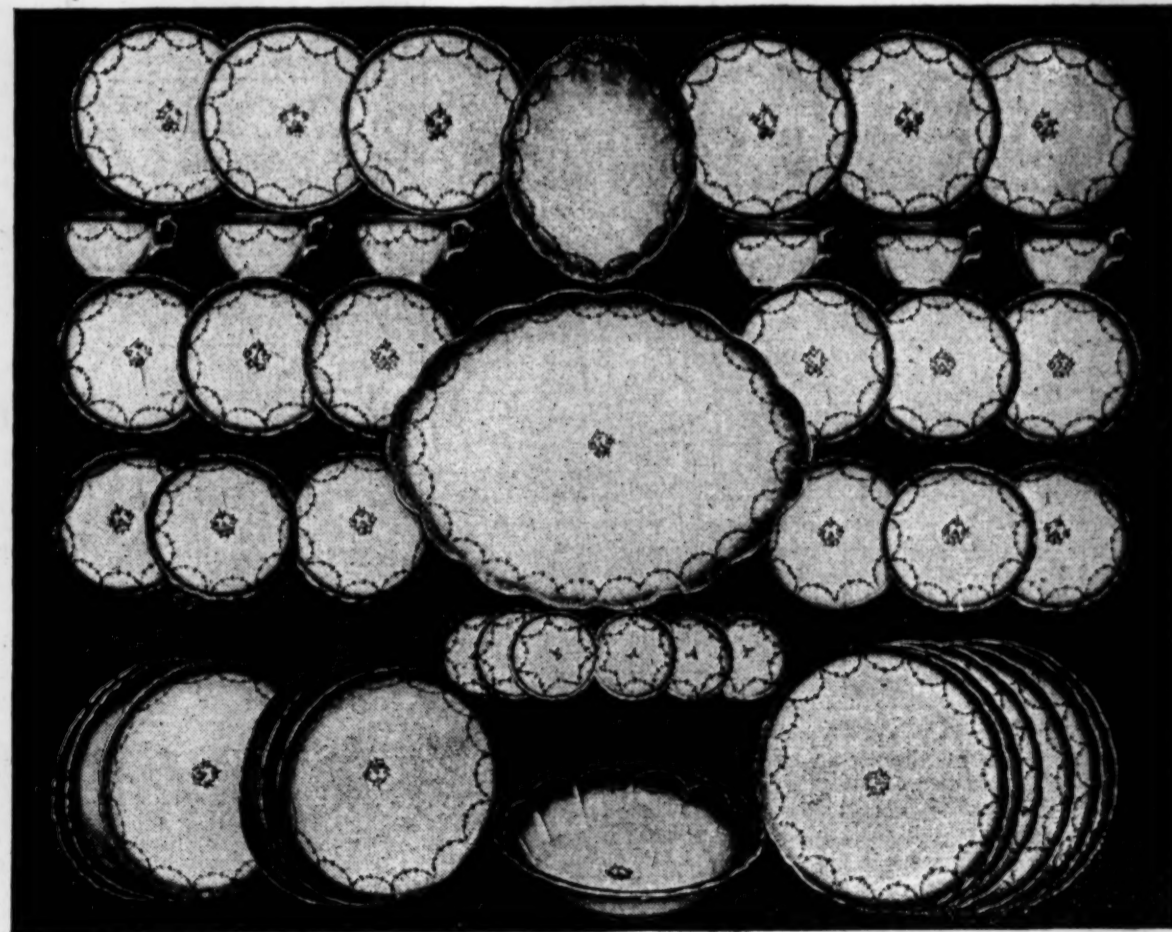

Cheeses as Heirlooms.

In some parts of Switzerland it is said that cheeses form family heirlooms which are sometimes handed down from one generation to another. At Les Ormonts, in the canton of Vaud, it is customary to make special cheeses for certain family feasts. They are tagged with explanatory labels and eaten several years later. At other feasts, or even at funerals. Recently, at Les Ormonts, in a concealed shelter, there was discovered a cheese dating from 1785. It was as hard as a rock and had to be cut with a saw. It is reported to have tasted good.

HESTER'S REPORT.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 31.—The following cotton crop figures for the year 1910-11 was issued today by Secretary Hester of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange:
Port receipts, 8,838,037 bales.
Overland, 973,492 bales.
Southern consumption, 2,363,616 bales.
Total, 12,175,145, less consumed at ports and shipped from ports to southern mills, 55,050. Total crop 12,120,095.

JOURNAL OF COMMERCE REPORT.
New York, Aug. 31.—The Journal of Commerce says:

According to 1,900 replies of special correspondents of the Journal of Commerce and commercial bulletin, bearing an average mail date of August 23, 24 percent condition of cotton was on that date 72.6 as compared with 86.9 a month ago, a deterioration for the period under equal of 14.3 points. This compares with 70.7 per cent last year, 66 per cent in 1909, 78.1 per cent in 1908 and 73.9 in 1907. The ten year average is 73.9 per cent and the loss of 14.3 points during August is the greatest in that month in the past ten years. The most important declines occurred in Texas and Oklahoma respectively 21.4 points and 19.1 points, where severe droughts and hot winds and worms caused heavy shedding. Well informed and conservative correspondents incline to the belief that the deterioration shown in this month's crop reports has been unduly exaggerated, consciously or unconsciously, by the active agitation in the cotton belt against large crop estimates. The returns must therefore be accepted accordingly and due allowance made for popular lies. In 1905 the August condition reported in these columns was 72.4 per cent or about the same as this year, the crop was 10,726,000 or a yield of 41 per acre. Should the same rate of yield be realized this year it would suggest a crop of not less than 14,300,000. Since the date of these mail advices general rains have greatly relieved conditions and considerable improvement is expected. Other heavy losses occurred in Georgia 10.9 points; Alabama 12.8 points; Mississippi 10.3; Louisiana, 14.8 and Arkansas 15.6.

MILKMAN CHANGED HIS MIND.

Thought Bulldog Was Eating His Calf in Earnest Until Owner Slipped Him Silver Piece.

If there was one thing Dodo the bulldog disliked it was a tradesman. Wherefore the old milkman was wary, and never ventured in without first tapping on the kitchen window to find out for certain that all was safe.

But the new milkman didn't know about Dodo.

When Dodo was eventually detached from the fleshiest part of the new milkman's calf by the master of the house, the victim of the onslaught began to express his mind with considerable freedom.

"Keepin' a dog like that!" he exclaimed, indignantly.

"He's only playful, that's all!" insisted the fond master, and pressed something silver into the new milkman's hand.

The milkman glanced at it, bit it, spat on it, and then deposited it in a safe pocket.

"I think I can take a bit o' fun as well as anybody," he said, dryly. "But, do you know, till you explained it I had a notion that that dog was eating my calf in real earnest!"

Handsome Costumes

THE handsome calling costume at the left is of scarlet satin. The skirt laps to one side both in back and front and is ornamented with passementerie buttons to match. The corsage is draped and crossed and is trimmed with a sort of revers collar of venetian lace and with a cascade of gold ribbon. The gumples, with round low neck, is of white lace ornamented with two rings of jet buttons.

The more dressy toilet at the right has a skirt of white liberty velled with white mousseline de sole, which is slightly gathered, trimmed with an applique of fine black guipure and finished, according to fashion, with flounce of green liberty.

The pretty new bolero is also of green liberty with collar of white satin bordered with a gold embroidery and a band of black satin. The plastron is of white mousseline de sole with an applique of black lace. A gold cord with tassels forms the girdle.

SERGE IS POPULAR MATERIAL

Coats for Both Grown-Ups and Children Are Seen Both in Dark Blue and Checks.

Serge is preferred to cloth for the serviceable coat and very often a smart little coat of serge has no trimming at all save a big collar of some contrasting material.

Dark blue serge and black and white check seem to be the favorites for the tailored coats designed for serviceable wear, though biscuit and khaki tones are considerably used.

On the dark blue serge a big collar of dull blue crash, plain or with scalloped and embroidered edge and perhaps some other embroidery design is liked. Ecru linen is used for collars, too, and some little coats in dark blue have big collars of soft rose linen embroidered in white.

Then, too, big collars of embroidered white pique are very smart on the dark coats. Often in the coats for children from three to six years of age the coat which falls almost to the bottom of the dress has a collar wide over the shoulders and sloping down quite to the bottom of the coat. Or perhaps the fronts cross diagonally, following the natural line of such a collar and two big buttons are set on diagonally at the very bottom of the overlapping front, the collar ending just above.

FOR COUNTRY WEAR.

Decidedly chic is this simple little empire frock built of snow white mohair and trimmed only with big white pearl buttons. The shawl revers give a graceful line to the shoulder and at the back these revers extend into a deep sailor collar. The smart side frill of tucked muslin and lace is matched by deep cuffs, which have much to do with the distinction of this simple little afternoon costume. The hat is a white chip model faced under the brim with black velvet and trimmed with a white curled ostrich wreath. The parasol is white silk with a border of venise lace and a carved ivory handle.

TAPESTRIES IN NEW DESIGNS

Light Summer Hangings This Year Are Prettier Than Those of Recent Seasons.

Each year brings its special fashions in furnishings, and just now, when the question of house cleaning is prominently to the fore, no little interest is being taken in the new chintz and tapestries which are now on show for loose coverings of all kinds. Everywhere one notices the effect of the Jacobean influence which is reasserting itself in matter appertaining to household decorations.

In place of the bunch of roses tied with bows of colored ribbon, which have figured on all chintz of late, one finds the new furnishing fabrics are printed in a variation of rich reds, greens, browns or wine color on a cream ground, or display bold conventional designs somewhat closely patterned, which lend themselves admirably to furnishing purposes and which look far more handsome and imposing than the simple floral designs of yesterday.

This new Jacobean taffeta is being used for curtains, bedspreads and cushion covers, as well as for covering chairs and sofas.

SMOOTH EYE NEEDLE BEST

Choice of Needles for Embroidery Matter in Which Great Care Should Be Exercised.

Exercise care in the choice of needles for embroidery. The best is a needle with a smooth eye that allows the silk plenty of leeway and will not pull or rough it.

Be sure your needle is adapted to the size of the silk. A too small eye cuts and frays the silk, gathering it in a thick lump which must be forced through the fabric. A too large one, on the other hand, shows the holes and makes the work look as if it had too few stitches.

In general, when working on the usual materials, a No. 9 or a No. 12 needle is best for double silk, No. 12 for fine embroidery with a single thread, No. 7 for thick floss, twisted embroidery silk and outline silk and No. 3 for rope silk.

In shading, where a number of colors are used alternately, have a needle for each color, and use the different needles in succession, instead of unthreading and threading again as you come to each new color.

Neckband Again.
The mode of the low-necked dress and the collarless frock has called out the black velvet neckband once more. This band is about an inch in width. When last worn this was merely a band, fastening in back or front under a buckle or pretty pin. Now, however, it is fastened in the back in the manner of thirty or forty years ago, with the long ends hanging down the back.

Skirt Contrasts.
The sheath, harem, hobble and other clinging skirts of today serve to make this photographic reproduction of this skirt of a couple of generations ago the more interesting. It was made of flowered silk and its fair wearer occupied an entire sofa.

The Good Tailor Earns His Money!

For every dollar "more" that you pay a good Tailor you get double value in Clothes. You get it in the Cloth—in the Workmanship

YOU get this double-value in the way of distinctive clothes—CLOTHES MADE FOR THE ONLY MAN IN THE WORLD THEY WOULD FIT AND SUIT. That's one important reason for tailors—you are the only man of the human race of your exact personality. You have no real doubles or duplicates. Therefore, you ought to wear clothes that were made for YOU. OUGHTN'T YOU?

LOVE GAVE LINCOLN START

icy Bath on Way to Visit Sweetheart Led to Law Study.

St. Louis Republic.

Love of a lassie, Mary Dillard Warnick, started Abraham Lincoln on the way to fame. For, in crossing the Sangamon river to see Mary Warnick, Lincoln got a sound ducking and had his feet frozen. His ardor was of the sort that could not be cooled even by sudden immersion in an icy stream. Lincoln swam out and proceeded to see Miss Warnick. 'Twas bitterly cold, and when he got to her father's house it was found that his feet were frozen. He was obliged to remain there for three weeks. 'Twas during this period that he got his first look at a law book. Major Warnick was sheriff of Macon county and had the statutes in his house.

This statement is made upon the as-urance of Capt. Robert Warnick, of Blue Mound, Ill., brother of Mary Dillard Warnick. Captain Warnick, who is 86 years old, has been a resident of Blue Mound township for 85 years. He knew Abraham Lincoln well when the great war President was a gawky farmhand. In fact, Lincoln worked many seasons for Major Warnick, father of Captain Robert Warnick. The tall, gawky farmhand, then in his twenties, lived with his shiftless father, Thomas Lincoln, on the north bank of the Sangamon river near Blue Mound. Abraham worked for the neighboring farmers, among them Major Warnick, father of his inamorata, major sheriff of Macon county, and one of the most distinguished citizens of central Illinois in the "prairie-breaking" days, which were also heart-breaking, man-breaking and woman-breaking days. To visit Mary Warnick the tall country lad was obliged to cross the Sangamon river in order to accomplish this he made a "dugout," which, as the name implies, was a large log, hollowed out with file and ax into the form of a rude canoe.

One night in the winter of 1829 this dugout capsized and precipitated its lover-occupant into the water. A wetting even in an icy stream does not seem to have chilled the ardor of Lincoln's passion. He tied up his rude shallop and went his way to Major Warnick's house, some three miles down the Springfield and Terre Haute pike. It was bitterly cold, and when Abe reached his destination it was found that, though his heart was aflame with the divine and Cupid-kindled fires, his toes were utterly frozen. He was obliged to remain with Major Warnick for three weeks, while the gentle Mary assisted her mother in nursing him.

It was during this enforced idleness that Abraham Lincoln took the first step out of the class of an ordinary farmhand to that of lawyer. Major Warnick, as sheriff of the county, had in his possession copies of the statutes of Illinois. These, though they would be reckoned dry reading by most young men, were gifts from Heaven to Abraham Lincoln. He read and reread them while confined in Major Warnick's home, and when he left he resolved to, if possible, study law. In 1830 he moved to Springfield and there began the career which landed him in the White House and made him one of the world's great men.

CONVENTION OF FARMERS ENDED TODAY

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—The North Carolina farmers convention closed its annual session at the A. & M. College here today with the election of W. J. Shuford, Hickory, as president, and reelection of I. O. Schaub, of the A. & M. College, as secretary. The sessions have been especially successful in value, the papers and addresses bearing on practical problems of farming. The attendance was disappointingly small, less than three hundred.

Maybe the reason a man will never write to his wife is the love letters he wrote her before she was.

WORK OF BREAKING TESTIMONY OF PAUL BEATTIE IS BEGUN

Witness Testifies He Saw Paul With Gun Day After He Says He Gave it to Henry Beattie—Defendant in Better Spirits.

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Aug. 31.—Counsel Smith, of the defense, stated this morning that the defense would base its case upon the story of the bearded wayfarer who shot Mrs. Beattie. We have no intention of pleading insanity, he said.

Juror J. H. Purdie suffered from neuralgia and an ulcerated tooth last night and had to be treated by a physician and a dentist. Gossip has it that the defense will have a good basis for an appeal on this fact, in case Henry is convicted and a new trial is desired. It is rumored that the prosecution has located the witness described by Beattie as the wayfarer who was near the scene of the murder, but was squirrel hunting.

David Weinstern, pawnbroker, testified to selling the gun to Paul Beattie, delivering it to him. He said Paul stated that he wanted it to use on Mayo Street bridge where he was employed as a watchman. The state tried to tangle the witness up as to the date on which the gun was sold, but the effort fell short of the mark.

Jacob Weinstern succeeded his brother and his testimony regarding the time of day did not agree with that of David. David had testified that it was 10 o'clock, whereupon Jacob testified that it was 10 o'clock.

C. H. Nevelett, superintendent of a paper mill, caused consternation by saying that he saw Paul Beattie with a gun on the day following that upon which Paul had testified he turned the gun over to Henry Clay Beattie. This contradicts the testimony of Paul Beattie and scores a point for the defense. D. L. Teney and W. B. Bradley, character witnesses gave the prisoner a good name.

Judge Watson is gaining the commendation of all those attending the murder trial by his honest straightforward and quick decisions in the conduct of the case. "Judge Watson is from Chesterfield where manners come from," is the epigram now current. The power of Judge Watson's personality receives dignity about the court room and, coupled with the spectators' consciousness of court-room etiquette, an air of the seriousness of the case pervades the proceedings.

Richmond, Aug. 31.—Smiling with an air of great satisfaction and nodding his head with approval at the introduction of a tiny ray of evidence upon which his attorneys hope to secure an instruction that will result in causing a mistrial through a hung jury or give an additional ground upon which a reversal in the Supreme Court of Appeals can be secured—even if it is not sufficient to secure his acquittal—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., presented a more cheerful appearance at the conclusion of yesterday's session of the Chesterfield Circuit Court than he has shown since Monday, when the prosecution fairly deluged the defense with a downpour of evidence and circumstances that fairly overwhelmed attorneys and defendant.

Testimony corroborative of the story told of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., that a bearded highwayman killed his wife with a shotgun was introduced by the defense in the Beattie trial yesterday when W. R. Holland, who lives in the vicinity of the Midlothian turnpike where the murder occurred, declared that he had seen a bearded man with a shotgun there about five hours before the tragedy.

It was the first move of the defense after the prosecution rested its case at noon to establish the veracity of the prisoner and besides Holland's statement

Will Move Soon.

The Board of Education will soon move into its new apartments in the annex to the court house.

The assembly room has already been furnished and as soon as the office furniture is installed they will be ready to move in. It will likely be sometime next week before they can get in on this account.

The new apartments are large and commodious and it will greatly facilitate matters to be where they are not cramped.

Trial Postponed.

The trial of John Grady for shooting Tom Amos has been postponed. Amos is recovering rapidly but not yet able to be up. Grady has been released on a $500 bond to appear before the court when Amos is able. Owing to the condition of Amos it will probably be several days before the trial comes off. However, he is certain to get well and the authorities thought it best to release Grady pending the trial.

BIDS FOR NEW PUMPING STATION BEING CONSIDERED

The Board of Commissioners of the city have been in session all day considering the bids on a new steam pumping station which will be erected in the near future.

It has been decided for sometime that the city was in great need of this new station, and the commissioners have taken the matter up in earnest and will push the matter to an early completion. Several concerns are competing for the contract.

They were in session all morning and are expected to get the matter settled as to who shall have the contract for erecting the building sometime this afternoon.

Are You Nervous?

What makes you nervous? It is the weakness of your womanly constitution, which cannot stand the strain of the hard work you do. As a result, you break down, and ruin your entire nervous system. Don't keep this up! Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Cardui is made from purely vegetable ingredients. It acts gently on the womanly organs, and helps them to do their proper work. It relieves pain and restores health, in a natural manner, by going to the source of the trouble and building up the bodily strength.

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Grace Fortner, of Man, W. Va., took Cardui. This is what she says about it: "I was so weak and nervous, I could not bear to have anyone near me. I had fainting spells, and I lost flesh every day. The first dose of Cardui helped me. Now, I am entirely cured of the fainting spells, and I cannot say enough for Cardui, for I know it saved my life." It is the best tonic for women. Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to women? Take Cardui. It will help you. Ask your druggist.

75 PER CENT. OF THE BIG ADVERTISERS OF AMERICA PREFER EVENING NEWSPAPERS

Out of 400 Large Department Stores 302 say they Prefer Evening Papers and Give Reasons Why

(FROM THE LOS ANGELES RECORD)

OUT of 400 letters sent to the large Department Stores of America asking which they considered a better medium for advertising, a morning or an evening daily newspaper, 392 replied. Of these replies 302 stated they preferred the evening newspaper for advertising; 26 stated they gave the evening paper first copy when they used an evening and a morning paper. As the Department Stores are always the largest advertisers in their respective cities and are in a position to see where the results come from, their opinions, formed from experience, are most valuable. They all speak most emphatically of the advantages of the evening paper over the morning paper for advertising. Of these 302 advertisers who prefer the evening paper a large number of them use the evening paper exclusively and find the returns most profitable.

THE following statements made by the different large firms of America show why they prefer the evening paper over the morning paper:

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The evening paper is best, as it is the one that gets into the homes and stays there. Men carry the morning paper downtown on their way to work in most cases.—Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—The evening paper undoubtedly is the best advertising medium, because it most surely gets into the very hands toward which all department store advertising is intended—the women of the house—and because then there is plenty of time to read, plan and digest.—Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

CHICAGO, ILL.—We spend $325,000 a year and 75 per cent of it is in the evening papers and 25 per cent in Sunday papers. Even with our great morning papers we cannot make them pay, though the experimenting has cost us $100,000.—Siegel, Cooper & Co.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—We prefer the evening paper for advertising because the housekeeper, business man and working man have more time to go through the paper in detail after the day's work is over and have time to plan their next day's shopping. Our experience is that we get quicker and more direct results from the evening paper.—Fowler, Dick & Walker.

BOSTON, MASS.—We consider the evening paper the best medium, because it is taken home and the women get to see it.—Henry Siegel Company.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—We consider the evening newspaper better, because we cater to the working people, and they are employed from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. and their only leisure time is in the evening, and they invariably take only evening papers, and have more time to read advertisements.—Cline Bros.

ALBANY, N. Y.—We consider the evening newspaper a better medium for advertising, because women have more time and better opportunity to read the evening papers.—Waldman Bros.

AKRON, OHIO.—We consider an evening paper a superior medium. The evening paper goes direct to the homes and is more thoroughly read. It is read by men after business duties are through for the day and they are more liable to remember the advertising. The morning paper is used by office men.—C. H. Leager & Co.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—We consider the evening paper the best advertising medium, as the average woman does not take time to read a paper until her work is done.—Ed Schuster & Co.

DETROIT, MICH.—We prefer the evening paper.—Partridge & Blackwell.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.—Best results from evening newspapers. The only time I use a morning paper is Sunday for Monday's business. Balance of the week the evening papers do the work to my entire satisfaction.—The Fair.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—We use afternoon papers exclusively during the week. Morning papers on Sunday only.—John C. Lewis Company.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—For advertisements containing items of special prominence likely to produce a rush, the evening newspaper serves as a better advertising medium, first, because people as a rule, have more time to read an evening paper thoroughly and note the contents thereof; second, it gives an opportunity to shoppers to select what items they contemplate purchasing and allows them time to prepare a program for the next day's shopping.—Burgin Dry Goods Company.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We prefer the evening paper week days and the morning paper Sundays only, because the evening paper is brought to the home by the member of the family who goes to business and buys and reads the paper on his way home. The Sunday paper is delivered at the home and read in the home.—Price & Rosenbaum.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We consider the evening paper the better medium for advertising, mainly because the evening paper goes into the home and stays there when there is time for the whole family to read and consider.—Frederick Losser & Co.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—We have always given the evening paper the preference. We spend $40,000 a year for advertising and this all goes into newspapers. We use no other medium of any kind, as we consider ANYTHING OUTSIDE OF THE NEWSPAPER as money wasted.—W. H. Elsinger & Co.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—We consider the evening paper better as a general thing, for it is usually the home paper.—Callendar, McAuslin — Troup Co.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The evening paper is, in our opinion, most profitable for advertising.—The Wm. H. Block Company.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—We do most of our advertising in the evening paper.—Wm. Henerer Co.

BOSTON, MASS.—We prefer the evening paper by all means, because it goes into the homes directly, while the morning paper has a tendency to work back into the business section and does not reach the homes in such relative number as the evening paper.—Houghton & Dutton.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Where I've been, almost without exception, the evening paper is the best medium.—W. H. Milligan, Advertising Manager Field, Schlick & Co.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—The evening paper by all means.—The Bailey Company.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—It is our opinion that the evening paper is better, as the shopper is prepared to sally forth the next morning.—Penny & Gentles.

ANOTHER DEPARTMENTAL ROW BROUGHT BEFORE PRESIDENT

Wickersham Fires Loose and in Opinion Says M'Veagh is Guilty of Violating Banking Laws—M'Veagh Says He is Boss of His Department—One will Likely Resign.

Special to Telegram.
(By VICTOR ELLIOTT.)

Washington, Aug. 31.—Another departmental row has been put up to the President, and as a result a Cabinet resignation or two may be forthcoming. Also a ruling will be issued affecting at least 300 national banks, which now own stock in subsidiary companies.

This dispute was caused by Attorney General Wickersham, who jumped into the matter without being asked and who volunteered an opinion about a treasury matter when his advice had not been requested.

According to statements made at the Treasury Department, the difficulty arose when the attorney general read in a newspaper recently that the National City Bank of New York, had organized the National City Company. This company was created to do business which the bank could not do under the national banking laws.

A national bank can not own real estate, it can not act as trustee, it can not do a savings business, and it can not do a good many other things that are properly functions of the banking business. As a result of the restrictions placed upon national banks by the Federal government, many of them have organized companies to do a sort of side line business. This has been going on for years with the full knowledge and consent of the treasury department.

When Attorney General Wickersham learned that the National City Bank, the greatest institution of its kind in the country, had created a subsidiary concern under the State laws of New York, he began to take notice. The act seemed illegal to him.

The law was examined and court decisions read by the attorney general. The further he got into the matter, the more convinced he became that the National City Bank was acting without warrant of law. He therefore volunteered an opinion to this effect, and sent it over to Secretary MacVeagh. This was the first chapter of the difficulty.

It so happens that the Secretary of the Treasury owns some bank stock. It is said that he owns the controlling stock in a bank or two in Chicago, and it is known that one of his banks has organized just such a company as that financed by the National City Bank. This gives him personal, as well as an official interest in the attorney general's ruling.

When this opinion reached him, unasked and unwelcome, the Secretary was astounded. He could not understand why Mr. Wickersham had interfered in the Treasury Department in such a manner, and he indignantly replied that when he wanted a legal opinion from the Department of Justice he would apply for it.

All this would have been kept secret, however, but for the fact when he prepared his opinion the attorney general, in his eagerness to have the country to know that he was always on the job, gave the effect of it out to the newspapers. The announcement reached the public about the same time it reached Secretary MacVeagh.

Of course the reporters went over to see Secretary MacVeagh when the matter became public. They wanted to know what the Treasury would do about it, in view of the fact that the opinion involved one of the greatest banks in the country, and such financiers as J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller.

The Secretary refused to talk at first. He could hardly grasp the presumption of the Attorney General in tendering an opinion under the circumstances. Then the facts about the other banks came out. Also the fact about the Secretary's own bank was published. This made it necessary for the treasury to speak up. And when it spoke, it spoke with emphasis. Officials of this department made it perfectly clear that it was none of the Attorney General's business what went on in the Treasury, and that his ruling would be ignored. They said that the department was correct in its position, and national banks had the right to organize subsidiary companies if they wanted to.

A rejoinder brought the matter to a head. It moved the Secretary to go to the President for a decision. He wanted the highest administration authority to rule upon the proposition and he wanted to know whether or not he was to run his department or the Attorney General was to be the boss.

And so it happens that another departmental difficulty has been presented to Mr. Taft for his action. Ever since he went into office rows of this character have followed each other in an unending procession.

This time the matter is serious, perhaps as serious as the Wiley affair or the Pinchot matter. Not only has the

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the New Drug.

An eminent skin specialist recently discovered a new drug, othine—double strength, which is so uniformly successful in removing freckles and giving a clear complexion that it is sold by Howard Gardner under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first night's use will show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. It is absolutely harmless, and cannot injure the most tender skin.

Be sure to ask Howard Gardner for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money back guarantee.

President been forced into the position of deciding between two of his Cabinet advisers, but he has to say whether or not 300 of the most important banking institutions in the country are to be offended.

Should the Attorney General be sustained, it is predicted that Secretary MacVeagh will resign. He will be guilty himself of violating a law he was supposed to enforce.

If on the other hand the Secretary be supported by the President it is hard to see how Mr. Wickersham can remain in the Cabinet. It will be the third time the Executive has been compelled to turn him down.

The present situation is more serious for Mr. Wickersham than any that has yet arisen for the reason that he clearly rushed into a departmental matter without being requested to do so, and has adjudged the Secretary of the Treasury guilty of a violation of law.

Heavy Books Injure a Child.

"Don't let the children carry heavy books to and from school," is the advice of a physician who has had a wide experience in children's hospitals. The habit tends to make one's shoulder higher than the other, to lengthen the arm and to enlarge the hand disproportionately. When "home work" cannot be avoided, let the child have a set of books for home use. Or, if that is not possible, at least do not allow him to carry books always on the same side.—Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Passengers on Big Liners Play Games to While Away the Time

PASSENGERS on the big Atlantic liners have many ways of passing the long days while the steamship races along on its way across the ocean. One of these games is shown in the picture above. It is a jumping rope race between girls and women who were second cabin passengers. Small prizes were offered for the winners, and an admission fee was charged. The sums paid by the spectators were added to the seamen's fund. In the first cabin concerts are always given, any actors or actresses who may be on board usually donating their services to help the same worthy cause. The marks that appear on the deck above were made in a sort of hopscotch game that had preceded the race. When the weather is calm these big vessels—the picture was made on the Mauritania—move along steadily, and nearly all of the passengers spend the daylight hours on deck.

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA. ITCH AND ALL SKIN DISEASES

Don't suffer a moment longer with eczema, or any form of skin or blood troubles. Don't scratch or rub the skin. Just apply Hancock Sulphur Compound to the affected spots and it will stop the itching at once, and cure the trouble permanently. One 60c bottle will cure that prevalent trouble, Common Itch. Nothing cures skin troubles so quickly as Hancock Sulphur Compound. To beautify the complexion and remove black heads and pimples, use Hancock Sulphur Ointment, 25c. Mrs. Evelyn Sarat, of Salem, Va., writes: "Three years ago I had a rough place on my cheek, it would burn and itch. I was fearful it might be of a cancerous nature. I used different preparations but nothing ever helped it. One bottle of Sulphur Compound cured me completely. I recommend it to any one having any skin disease." CLANCY'S TWINS HAVE THE PENNANT CINCHED

Patriots Have no Chance at Coveted Rag—They Have Played Fine Ball, However and Did Good Work—Final Series Begin This Afternoon.

Winston's victory over Charlotte in a five inning contest yesterday puts the Twins four games ahead of Doyle's Patriots, and the Twins have no chance of losing the coveted "rag."

Even if Greensboro wins the remainder of the games and Winston loses the final series, Clancy's Twins would still be several points to the good.

While Greensboro will not get the pennant this year the men managed by Frank Doyle are as fine a set of ball players as was ever gathered together in a Class D league and they have put up a hard fight to bring the pennant to Greensboro. Greensboro is the only team in the league that has gone through the season with only three twirlers. Houser has been in playing condition less than a week and has pitched part of two games. Morrissey was given his release unconditionally last week and really Doyle never carried but three twirlers. For a couple of weeks past Morrissey was not in good condition and his failure to pitch winning ball, coupled with a slump by Eldridge about the middle of the season is the reason Greensboro is not on the top rung of the ladder at present.

Taken all in all the boys have done well and there should be no kick coming because of their failure to land the "rag." Winston has met with luck while playing with Greensboro, for while the Twins won 13 out of 23 games played with Greensboro it does not follow that Clancy has the best team. In a majority of the games baseball luck contributed largely in bringing about the result desired by the Twins.

For the final series of the season Greensboro plays at Anderson, Spartanburg at Winston and Greenville at Charlotte. The season ends Saturday night.

Gallant Youth Has Bride of Ninety-six.

Troy, Mo., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Nancy Edey, 96 years old, was married for the sixth time yesterday to Reed Inlow, 24 years old. The bride's fifth husband died six ago on the county poor farm at Troy. The throng at the station cheered as the pair stepped aboard the train for their wedding trip to Hannibal.

The bride wore a black dress with a belt made of leather and a clothes line. She wore a sunbonnet and appeared to be happy. Although quite gray, the bride does not appear so near the century mark. She has lived near Silex practically all her life. Inlow wore overalls and a hickory shirt. He was coatless and smiled as he helped his bride aboard the train.

Lincoln county has been practically keeping Mrs. Inlow for the last five years. She has been living in a tent, between Silex and Whiteside for the last few weeks. Mrs. Inlow drove to Silex and joined Mr. Inlow. After their trip the couple will go to her tent until winter. The bride has retained good health and can see without spectacles. Her hearing is good. The bridegroom is employed on a farm near Silex.

Snake-Killing Birds.

In South Africa it is to be found the champion snake killer of the bird family. It is known as the secretarybird.

The name seems an odd one, but the bird received its name from a crest or tuft of plumage rising from the back of its head, which reminds one of a secretary or bookkeeper with a bunch of quills stuck behind his ear.

As a rule it attacks smaller snakes in preference to the very powerful ones, and in doing so uses every precaution against contact with the poisonous fangs or strong cells. It does not attack its prey suddenly, but, after walking round the spot occupied by the reptile, suddenly spreads its wings and gives the reptile a sudden but sharp blow on the head with its very hard and sharp talons. This is done so quickly that the reptile has no chance to resist.—Harper's Weekly.

HARD TIMES FOR DOCTORS

Their Fees Were Small in Babylon and Failure to Cure Meant Torture.

Babylonian surgeons four thousand years ago had not the easy time of their modern colleagues. The French archaeological commission has just discovered there a tablet containing some interesting facts about the Babylonian Bob Sawyer. For all operations "performed with a knife" patients were to pay twelve silver shekels, which is about $3.75 of American money. A broken leg or arm must be set for $2, and teeth were drawn at the uniform rate of seventy-five cents.

All the same, this must have been pretty good pay for the time, because the tablet in question goes on to enumerate the punishment meted out to surgeons who made professional mistakes. These would appear even less to the modern medical man than the low fees.

When an operation caused the death of a patient the unfortunate surgeon had both his hands cut off; and when he did not cure his patient in reasonably quick time, the tablet tells us that his fee was confiscated by the government. It does not mention what was considered a reasonable time for healing.

Word to Be Avoided.

Recovery of a letter which had been sent to a little town in Germany and never delivered to the person addressed cured one writer of the custom of adding "Esquire" to a name on the superscription of mail matter. The letter in question would probably have been promptly delivered had the address read simply, "Mr. John Brown." But the sender had addressed it "John Brown, Esquire" and the communication rested comfortably in the "E" compartment of the post restant department waiting to be called for by "Mr. Esquire." One of the popular guide books warns against the use of "Esq." saying that it might be mistaken for a name.

Snake-Killing Birds.

In South Africa it is to be found the champion snake killer of the bird family. It is known as the secretarybird.

The name seems an odd one, but the bird received its name from a crest or tuft of plumage rising from the back of its head, which reminds one of a secretary or bookkeeper with a bunch of quills stuck behind his ear.

As a rule it attacks smaller snakes in preference to the very powerful ones, and in doing so uses every precaution against contact with the poisonous fangs or strong cells. It does not attack its prey suddenly, but, after walking round the spot occupied by the reptile, suddenly spreads its wings and gives the reptile a sudden but sharp blow on the head with its very hard and sharp talons. This is done so quickly that the reptile has no chance to resist.—Harper's Weekly.

If it is true that the raising of the Maine shows that we went to war with Spain unnecessarily, it is a sad fact, but quick "Snap" judgments as a rule always result in disaster. If "Bargain Hunting" Is Extravagance, Isn't It Strange That Bargain Hunters Can Always Afford It!

And haven't you noticed that, even if the family income is not at all great, the bargain hunting woman always seems to have the money with which to indulge her "extravagance?"

This fact should teach her critics something—perhaps teach them that the fixed habit of intelligent buying, based upon a persistent study of the ads, is a form of "extravagance" that should prevail in every home in the land!

HANGED

Today for Murder Committed Over Eleven Years Ago.

Westchester, Pa., Aug. 31.—William F. Burke was hanged today for the murder of James C. McNamara, the crime having been committed on Feb. 24, 1901. Burke shot McNamara because he charged Burke $10 for taking his aunt to a hospital at Elkton, Md.

BUZZARD TIES UP CAR SYSTEM IN BALTIMORE.

Landed on Tower and Pecked Wire Shortcircuiting Plant. Baltimore, Aug. 31.—Just because a big black buzzard or vulture chose to land on one of the towers of the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company at Highlandtown yesterday, 800 cars of the United Railways stood still and 32,000 passengers fretted for six minutes. Some of them got out and walked the rest of the distance in the rain to their destinations. The last time the cars stopped it was from an accidental wire contact; the first time it was when a workman fell against a copper bus and took 13,000 volts through his body, afterward dying at Mercy Hospital.

Since the United Railways has been getting its power from the new source there have been several tie-ups. It seems as though almost anything is likely at any time to short-circuit the plant, and as the whole current is over one service the whole trolley system must stop until the trouble can be remedied or the old service from the power-houses brought into requisition. Under the old method, it was impossible for the entire system to be tied up at once; under the new, a tie-up for one line means a tie-up for all.

The buzzard, one of the kind known as turkey-buzzard, and not the Buteo Swainsoni, which has some class, was circling around looking for carrion or live prey, when he evidently found his engine missing, or something gone wrong with the carburetor, or perhaps he was running low on gasoline. The first thing an aviator does in such circumstances is to look for a landing place. Mr. Buzzard espied one of the company's towers.

"Looks good to me," he remarked. "I'll just drop down there and overhaul my machinery."

Suited action to the word, he volplaned to the tip of the tower and grappled as he reached it. Unfortunately, the buzzard is not a discriminating bird. Having landed on the tower, he took a peek at a high-power wire, possibly with the idea that it was a new sort of worm or something else edible. As soon as he touched the wire he changed his mind, but it was too late. With the whole voltage shot through his body he whirled in the air and came down outside the works a charred, thoroughly roasted victim of misplaced confidence.

Also, as soon as he touched the wire he short-circuited the plant. There were one or two sharp flashes and the wheels stopped dead. Electricians quickly located the trouble and went for it. Meantime, all the street cars of Baltimore had stopped and motormen and conductors were idle on their jobs. Men and women eager to reach their offices, some of them over-sleepers from a rainy night, craned their necks and asked questions, while conductors made note of the time to turn in their reports. Within two minutes the trouble had been adjusted at the plant, but it was six minutes before cars began moving.

OFFERS BEULAH BINFORD AID.

Iowa Man Writes Letter to Establish Kinship to Girl.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 31.—If Beulah Binford can establish her relationship with the old Quaker family of Binfords, she will have all the assistance necessary in her present predicament.

Sheriff Herbert Mercer is in receipt of a letter from Thaddeus Binford, of the law firm of Binford & Farmer, of Marshalltown, Iowa, in which he states he has noticed Beulah Binford's connection with the Beattie case, and added: "My father originally came from Richmond, Va., or near there. My grandfather's name was Peter Binford. In religion our people were all Quakers at the time they came from Virginia. If Miss Binford is a relative of ours, and we can be of any service to her we will be glad to render any service at our command. I would be glad if you would hand this letter to Miss Binford, and I would be glad to hear from her, if she cares to write me."

COFFEE PRICE RISES ON HEELS OF SUGAR

Manipulation Sends Both Commodities Higher Than in Many Years

Special to Telegram.

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—Close on the heels of another advance yesterday in the price of refined sugars came the announcement of a jump in coffee prices in the wholesale markets, which puts the price of the latter commodity higher than at any time in the last fifteen years.

In trade circles the price advances are not regarded as due to any natural condition in the markets. Artificial inflation, and the desire of the Sugar Trust and the big coffee interests for more profit is given as the real reason. Already the retail prices of sugar is higher than for several years, and chances are that when grocers and other shopkeepers begin to put in orders for additional supplies they will begin to tack on an additional half-cent or a cent per pound.

The increase yesterday amounted to 10 points, which is 10 cents per 100 pounds. The price jump has been 20 points in the last two days. The American refinery, which controls the Franklin sugar refinery, in this city, is now quoting 6.15 cents less 2 per cent for cash. The Federal, Arbuckle and Warner, Howell & Company are quoting 6.25 net, less 2 per cent for cash.

The difference in price is regarded in trade circles as a subterfuge to give the public the impression that there is real competition in the sugar trade.

So powerful are the interests, which control the coffee trade of the country, that they have boosted the price to 12.04 cents a pound for September contracts, which is the highest figure reached in the market for fifteen years. It is an advance of 50 per cent compared with the price a year ago. The price jump has already put retail prices up 3 and 5 cents a pound higher than a year ago, and grocers are getting ready to revise their lists upward.

It is known to the trade that there is no shortage in the coffee crops of the world, and the price jumps are attributed to manipulation on the part of those who control the bulk of the output. Receipts of coffee at Brazilian ports are said to be as large, if not larger, than those at this time a year ago, and warehouse deliveries in this country are said not to have decreased any in the last few months.

TERRIFIC

Storm Approaching United States From off Coast of Cuba.

Washington, Aug. 31.—A terrific storm is approaching the United States from Cuba, according to a report received by the Weather Department today. The storm is reported to be worse than the one that cut Charleston from communication with the world for a period of 24 hours. Warnings have been sent to all seaports and revenue cutters have been ordered to patrol the entire Atlantic coast for the next several days.

TAFT'S STAND IS LUDICROUS SAYS BRISTOW

Says President Knows Little Or Nothing of Tariff. Salina, Kan., Aug. 31.—Replying to Taft's speech at Hamilton, Mass., last Saturday, Senator Bristow (Rep., Kan.) yesterday issued the following statement:

Heretofore our Presidents, when visiting the people, have realized the dignity of the great office they hold, and abstained from making offensive political speeches. They have not indulged in political arguments common to professional campaign stump speakers.

It is commendable in the Democrats, according to the President, to aid him in taking from the tarner the benefit of the tariff and in discrediting it in their own minds. It is not, however, the duty of a President to reduce the tariff duties or to control the products.

As to the Wool bill, La Follette aided by the ablest experts in the country spent months in the preparation of the La Follette Wool bill. It is no exaggeration to say there was probably more thorough and painstaking work expended in the preparation of that bill than has ever been expended on any single tariff schedule. For Taft, whose superficial knowledge of the tariff is well known to all, to criticize La Follette and state that his bill was prepared "in ignorance" is ludicrous in the extreme.

From Taft's speech it clearly appears that he is in favor of free trade for the farmer and high protection for the manufacturer. I do not agree to that new tariff doctrine.

ALONE WITH CORPSE.

Domestic's Daily Visits to House Where Dead Man Lay.

Pasaic, N. J., Aug. 31.—Although she has been in the house every day since Saturday, Olive Mahood, a domestic in the home of Lionel Finzi, of No. 7 High street, did not learn until yesterday evening that Mr. Finzi's brother-in-law Archibald Dickey, was dead in the house, and had been since Saturday night. The fact that she slept at her own home is a plain explanation of the circumstance. County Physician Armstrong said the man died from heart failure.

Until Tuesday Miss Mahood thought Dickey was away. Then through a slightly-opened door she saw the man in bed, but supposed he was ill. Yesterday evening she called in William J. Tunison, a neighbor, who entered the room and found Dickey's body, lifeless and decomposed. The man was 35 and unmarried. The other members of the family were away.

ASSESSOR IS SUSTAINED

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—The decision of the Corporation Commission made yesterday in the matter of Tax Assessor B. G. Crisp, of Dare county, will probably be given out by the commission today. Mr. Crisp was seen yesterday afternoon and stated that he had been advised by the commission that the decision sustained his position regarding tax assessments in Dare.

The facts in the case, given by Mr. Crisp when seen yesterday, are these: Mr. Crisp was appointed county assessor for Dare by the Corporation Commission and his assistants were appointed by the County Board. When the Board of Equalization met the chairman of that board introduced a resolution to accept the valuations as put on by the property owners. Assessor Crisp then took the matter up with the Corporation Commission, and there was a special hearing at Manteo August 16. The decision was made yesterday sustaining the assessor.

Goes With Refining Company.

Mr. J. V. Gwaltney, who has been with the American Tobacco Company for some time, has resigned his position with this company to accept a position as traveling salesman for the Atlantic Refining Company. He will begin his new work September 1. His territory will be North Carolina and Virginia and his headquarters Greensboro. — Winston Journal.
